Dear Kelly,

Cyberthon is slowly becoming a memory, but before the recollection of it grows too dim in our minds, I want to take this opportunity to thank you for your help.

Certainly without your guidance, help and inspiration Cyberthon would have been missing a very important element, had it happened at all. Although there some glitches, and some moments of panicked preparation, knowing you were there for guidance helped us all keep things in perspective and allowed us to keep things moving along.

I definitely think Cyberthon was a unique way for POINT to launch itself into the 90s and certainly an innovative first step for the Whole Earth Institute. I also think we all must have been listening to Dr. Steckel when he told us to reuse information because Cyberthon certainly was really repackaging information we already had in a new form and marketing it to a new audience.

Again thank you for your guidance, support and good-humor.

Yours truly,

Stephanie Leonard
